If a member of your household has been unemployed for 60 days or more, is at-risk of housing instability, and is actively seeking employment, your household may qualify for emergency rental assistance based on the following documented proof:

- Evidence of application for unemployment benefit OR evidence of expired unemployment benefits (dated within the past 60 days from application date) OR
- Any dated correspondence (within the past 60 days from application date) from the individual's former employer indicating job loss, such as layoff notice, termination notice, or closure of business. The correspondence must be signed by the former employer and include their phone number, email address, and former business address.

If your application is approved, emergency rental assistance will be paid directly to the property owner by the City of Claremont in the form of one lump sum equivalent to no more than the value of two months of a household's current rent.

Risk of Housing Instability

Applicants who can prove that they are at imminent risk of housing instability will be considered first in an effort to prevent the applicant from becoming unsheltered. Documentation proving imminent risk of housing instability includes one or more of the following:

- Any past due rent notice
- Notice to vacate or to quit the rental unit

Did you provide such documentation in your application? Circle one:        Yes    or    No

Applicants who can provide proof that are on a fixed income and/or are an “extremely low-income household” (as defined by HUD) will receive higher priority.

Did you provide such documentation in your application? Circle one: Yes    or    No

Certification
